Terminal Care for Sick Children (Palliative Care) West Midlands Paediatric Macmillan Team

This text deals sensitively and comprehensively with caring for children dying from a malignant illness. It provides an overview of the care given to children in the palliative phase of their malignant disease. It comprises the theoretical components of palliative care, linked to the practical experience of the West Midlands Paediatric Macmillan Team (WMPMT). The text explores cultural, ethical and psycho-social issues. Chapters include: statistics of childhood cancer; the journey to palliative care; active treatment options; models and organisations of care; symptom management; dilemmas in symptom management; communication with child and family; practical issues; and issues for professionals.
