The year is 2014 and a billowing, black column of smoke rises from a forest clearing. A three-story building, built under the tightest security ever known, is burning out of control. A GMC Suburban, containing one pregnant genetic designer and four genetically engineered children, race recklessly away from the burning structure. Twenty years later a small, but powerful, secret fellowship, a vengeful genetic designer and a deadly man-made virus combined with the genetically engineered super humans she created. These super-humans, three women and two men, were genetically created to possess superior minds, enormous strength and lightning speed. Their mission: To locate a group of terrorists who have control of a deadly man-made virus and destroy it! Can they succeed, or will a vicious international assassin or the Mossad stop them before they ever have a chance to start their mission? Will the deadly man-made virus infect the "Five" once they enter the new and bizarre jungle of Israel? In this first installment of the Nina Steel Adventure series. Ray Hansen takes you on an exciting ride with these five genetically engineered super humans. Travel with the "Five" from their early childhood at the top-secret genetic engineering facility, hidden away in the forest of Maine, to their strange reunion as adults in Chicago and on to Israel to meet their destiny.

Toni Sargent:

As a scholar, I exactly feel bored to be able to read. If their teacher expected them to go to the library or make a summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just minor students that have reading as an internal or real leisure activity. They just do what the educator wants, like asked to the library. They go to there but nothing is really read. Any student feels that looking at it is not important, boring as well as can't see colorful photos on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Books are very important in your case. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise, words say, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore, this Reunion: Nina Steel Adventures can make you really feel more interested to read.
