Triumphing Over Darkness is a love story. Lucy, the main character, loses her sight at the age of 22. In the latter years of her blindness, she meets a successful businessman and they fall in love. Lucy tells the tragic story of how she lost her sight. She narrates through the psychological and sociological effects blindness has on a person living in a sighted world. She misspells the myths and stereotypes society has about blind people. She educates her new love about the history of blindness, laws, Braille and the white cane. Her new love deals with a best friend who has deceived and lives a life of lies. The book contains some violence and sex.
