The Meditation for the Faithful E. M. N. Nigraucity

There are many avenues of gathering the necessary wisdom and knowledge, with regard to apprehension and attainment of the tangible aspects to most things that we experience, covet, need, and want. There are of course occupations, professions, relationships, and possessions that are of varying need and are based on a case by case basis per individual necessity. Many things don't necessarily require a full knowledge of all of the details and aspects of it's functionality, craftsmanship for utilization of it's purpose. When one begins the journey of religion or their quest in fulfillment for their journey of piety, freedom, fulfillment, and completeness in what some refer to as a higher power. There are key elements that one must consider. In most cases those elements are aspects that are taught, copied, or maybe just imagined. We as a human race don't usually experience our potential or think beyond our limitations within our own finite strength and will according to our human nature. There are a few who may even think that they could perhaps rise from the dead on their own. The reality is at the end of the day, at the beginning of nightfall, and on to the horizon of another day. We never know when our journey of the physical will end. Many never even place much thought are a multitude of thoughts in preparation for their ending, more so than the continuation and ongoing mode of one's human existence. The finite mindset sets out and plans it's natural life as though it is never going end. In fact many small and great have declared, "That I am going to live until I die." Which in all reality and from an eternal perspective reflects the burning quest to run a race to the fullest according to the human life that will end in naught as far as eternal reward is concerned. The reversal should be to plan as though it were going to end, or as though one were in the process of moving from one house to another, or from one building to the other, and in the human psyche's case from one kingdom to another. In beginning the quest for the journey of our move from the things of the natural to the things that are eternal. One must realize that what lies ahead is that which encompasses the desperate need, the ultimate desire, and our entire fulfillment. What is the necessary fact that all must face is what is the vital factor that will cause men to live again? What is the assurance???? (ponder) What are the key general aspects that are vital to gaining the most or all that there is to gain with minimal or no loss? Is there a guide for such a quest? In this editorial, manuscript, and masterful writing, many aspects of the true journey of the psyche of man is covered. The quest is made clearer and many hidden obstacles and hindrances are exposed. This clearly is a new beginning and a renewed approach of taking on a personal part of our human baton and running a race on a clear track that is in place. We have now been given a tool and a map that will lead us to our destiny and our hope of The Glory and Power of our Maker. Our eternally purposed and preordained destiny to our individual position that is necessary for our collective present and eternal role, which is our true call and position of being the eternal house and everlasting Son's of The Living God. twitter@nigraucitylive ""
